

Abstract

Single-piece type intraocular lens includes a stepped part provided in a boundary between an optic portion 1 and support portions in the posterior 1b of the optic portion 1, in such a way that the surface of a part shifting to the region of the support portion from the region of the optic portion shifts suddenly toward the anterior of the optic portion.